Socrates the great Greek philosopher tried hard to control his temper. He believed that angry man was more of a beast than a human being. He had a wife, who used to lose her temper on small excuse. One day she became furious and began to insult Socrates. Socrates did not utter a single word. He set on the door step of the house looking out on the public street. At this, she got even more furious and went up to him and emptied a potful of water over him. Socrates remarked, 'I was expecting this, because after thunder comes rain.
