Socrates the greatest philosopher tried hard to control himself and resolved never to make a show of his temper. He believed that an angry man was more of a beast than a human being. He had a wife who used to lose her temper on the slightest excuse and tried her utmost to irritate the cool and calm philosopher. One day the woman became more furious than ever and began to insult Socrates. He left her alone in the room and sat on the doorstep of the house, looking out on the public street. The wife, finding that Socrates was not paying the least heed to her, went up to him and emptied a pot full of water over him. The passers by in the street were much amused at the incident. Socrates joined with them in their laughter and quietly remarked "I was expecting this - after thunder comes rain."
