- A teacher can never truly teach unless he is still learning himself. A lamp can never light another lamp unless it continues to burn its own flame. The teacher who has come to the end of his subject, who has no living traffic with his knowledge, but merely repeats his lessons, his students can only load their mind; he cannot quicken them. A good teacher inspires the students. Information is secondary for him, if the inspiration dies out, the Truth loses its infinity. Accumulation of information without any inspiration means the greater part of the learning period has been wasted. The subject for teaching should not be the dead specimens of the living things and living beings. If the younger generation has a learned acquaintance and no communication of life and love, it is fruitless.
